- Oversee client relations, business and strategy development and account management for Jacht Agency. Jacht is a student-run agency and premiere program at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln attracting more than 100 students each academic year and more than 30 paying clients each academic year. Services and departments include: Brand Strategy, Copywriting, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, Graphic Design, Human Relations, Social Media, Public Relations, Videography and Web Development. Visit Jacht.Agency for more information.
- Develops, implements and oversees Executive Leadership Program at Jacht Agency for six director-level roles within the agency. Organizes and plans quarterly and bi-annual strategic planning retreats. Builds and maintains client relationships across the country.

Advertising and Public Relations (ADPR) Major Chair (2022-2023)

- Organizes and facilitates monthly meetings with ADPR faculty to discuss academic affairs, curriculum changes, and related topics. Represents the faculty on the College Executive Committee.

Experience Lab Co-Director (2020-2023)

- Directed and implemented top strategic priorities for the UNL College of Journalism and Mass Communication, which initiated a practicum for a college-wide experiential learning program. Worked to identify major-related experiential learning opportunities across the college and establish multi-semester, multi-credit student-led practicum programs. I also worked with administration and colleagues to engage faculty in practicum administration and developed student leaders to serve as the editors, producers and student leads across the practicum programs.
- Engaged with industry partners as professionals in residence (PIRs) to design real-world learning experiences in the practicum, mentor students, and evaluate portfolios. Worked with the Dean's Office and student leaders to create a centralized web portal for the learning lab including all practicum areas.

Buoy Student-Run Agency Director (2020-2022)

- Oversee client relations, business and strategy development, and account management for Buoy. This newly developed student-run agency attracted more than 40 students since the program launch and more than 8 mission-driven clients that aim to make a direct impact on the state of Nebraska through its communication efforts.

Interim Graduate Chair (2019-2020)

- Managed all graduate degrees, majors, specializations, minors and certificate programs in the college. Facilitated the agenda and deliberations of the Graduate Policies and Procedures Committee and assisted the college to grow professional graduate programs online. Developed integrated media communications campaign and key message matrix to further segment and target key audiences across the nation through digital and traditional marketing. The campaign led to 13,058 unique impressions and resulted in reaching more than 5,400 individuals.

Teaching Responsibilities & Pedagogical Contributions

The Social Media Landscape - JOMC 462/862

- Proposed & developed a new course that introduces students to the idea of social influence and how social trends are changing the way information flows into society. Through Socratic-based discussions, students will discover the impact of social media on global political and social change movements.

Branding Yourself in Today's Market - JOMC 491/891

- Proposed & developed an online synchronous pop-up course that explores strategies for students to better understand how to brand themselves in today's market. Students learn how to formulate their own value proposition and convey their knowledge, skills and abilities to prospective employers.

Social Media Theory and Practice - ADPR 466/866

- This asynchronous course offers an in-depth exploration of social media theories and practices. Students learn about prominent communication theories and apply them to social media research, content analyses and develop a strategic social media plan for a real-world organization.

Digital Content Strategy - ADPR 362

- Explores the digital advertising and content landscape with the goal of informing students on how to identify, develop, execute and analyze effective digital content strategies for businesses, brands and organizations.

Digital Insights and Analytics - ADPR 434/834

- Students learn key elements of the digital communication landscape and how various channels can be utilized to analyze audiences, connect with brands and ultimately make informed decisions based on data.

Strategic Writing for Advertising and Public Relations - ADPR 221

- Introduces students to advertising and public relations writing styles and techniques to develop effective, goal-oriented communications designed for diverse audiences, tactics and media. This course spans objective news-style writing to digital storytelling, persuasive ad copywriting and promotional direct marketing.

Research and Strategy Development for Advertising and Public Relations - ADPR 283

- Provide students with the fundamental skills needed to conduct research, analyze, evaluate, develop and write an integrated marketing communications (IMC) plan. This class will build on the integrated marketing communications model, which includes advertising but goes beyond to include many types of promotional communication. In this new environment, strategic thinking and good writing remain critical skills. Thus, strategy development and articulation of that strategy through writing are the main focus of this course.

Harvard University (Cambridge): Professional Development Programs

2018-2022

- Worked with the marketing directors and external strategic partners to allocate an advertising budget of approximately $3.5M through the most effective channels as supported by data.
- Supervised content marketing team, web development team, and social and email marketing team.
- Defined the marketing services organization and function. Developed digital, content, and web roles, and clearly outlined responsibilities. Established and led a team of content contributors.
- Directed and collaborated with cross-functional groups including an advertising agency and vendors, school/program marketing, creative services, and email operations to ensure digital content is leveraged to drive the most impact for the business.
- Developed and delivered periodic quantitative and qualitative reports on optimization of the marketing funnel, campaign results, and return on investment for content and digital marketing campaigns.

Harvard University (Cambridge): Assistant Director of Content and Program Marketing

2016-2017

- Served as a key member in the Office of Strategic Growth Initiatives at Harvard's Division of Continuing Education (DCE). Developed overall content strategy and measurement plan, focusing on creating a positive and consistent UX by defining target audiences and dissemination strategies. Managed team of program brand marketing specialists, editorial staff, freelance writers and proofreaders.
- Engaged internal team members and stakeholders to identify appropriate content that supports the overall strategy and organizational goals. Works with program marketing specialists to create program-specific content plans.
- Measured effectiveness of content strategy to meet needs through informal interviews with product marketing specialists and key internal stakeholders. Works closely with the web development team and vendors on page and template development, microsites, landing pages, and testing strategies.
- Stayed current on trends in digital advertising, UX, and content marketing and content strategy to help position DCE as a leader in the space. Worked alongside vendor and senior editor to develop a sound SEO strategy that can be monitored, measured, and optimized according to industry best practices. Collaborated with a digital marketing team to develop integrated digital strategies and multichannel dissemination plans. Analyzes the performance of SEO campaigns by identifying strategic opportunities and optimizing content to reach department goals.
- Organized Salesforce implementation of program-specific student journeys and event campaigns, working towards a customized lead nurturing process for prospective students entering the marketing funnel.
